

Weekly Brief #1

 Date	@March 11, 2022 → March 18, 2022
----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------

Current status:

Currently waiting for the NDA to be signed in order to get access to all technologies and materials needed to start development. Clients already have all of our contacts and are happy to start working with the LGP company. Roles are well defined and evenly distributed among the company members.

Plans for the next week:

Get access to the dataset and a Power Apps account to start working in the app. Define the company vision and name, and work on the client requirements to establish our product goals.

Main risks:

The client wants the app to be built in Microsoft Power Apps but that may come with some inconveniences, such as the inability to work collaboratively since it does not currently have much support for GitHub. We will also need to be careful when presenting the product to the client, since it may influence and change the project requirements.
